HUGHES ENTERS RACE FOR JOB IN APPEALS COURT

Lima Man Declares He is Out for Judge in the 12th District.

DR. HUNT GETS BUSY

Confident Because He's the Only Wet Man in Fight for Congress.

Kent W. Hughes today filed his petition as a candidate for judge of the court of appeals with W. L. Neville, M. J. Mooney, W. L. MacKenzie, C. S. Baxter, O. B. Selfridge and W. B. Ritchie as electors certifying to his qualifications to fill the position.

The democrats of this appellate district have never in the history of the court honored Allen county with a judge and the democracy of Allen county will without doubt be enthusiastic in its support of Hughes as its candidate.

Mr. Hughes has ever been known as a consistent, fighting democrat and in his 20 years active practice of the law has gained a merited reputation as an honest, industrious lawyer and public spirited citizen.

Kent, as we have always known him, is the oldest son of the late Charles M. Hughes, who served Allen county with distinction as judge of the common pleas court from 1878 to 1888. He was born and raised in Lima where he has always enjoyed the confidence and respect of his fellow citizens in every walk of life.

He is just a common every day sort of a fellow, never too busy to stop and extend his hand and give a genial smile and kindly word to his friends wherever he may chance to meet them; but he is endowed with the highest legal ability and that peculiar temperament and with those qualifications required of a judge.

The democrats of Allen county may, with confidence in his ability and fitness for this high honor, commend him to the third appellate district.

Dr. F. M. Hunt, of Piqua, the only congressional candidate who has yet entered the petition-filed class, was a visitor in Lima yesterday. During a visit to The Times-Democrat office the Miami county man explained some of his qualifications.

"Not only do I find a great demand for a third man," he declared, "but I believe I'm going to get this nomination. Unless Goeke enters I will be the only wet man in the field, for I'm against prohibition. I ran 49 votes ahead of Bryan in my precinct in 1896, when I was a candidate for congress in the stoutly republican Seventh district. And you may have noticed that I'm the only candidate for congress who hasn't been roasted by some paper or other."

IN CONGRESS RACE.

Francis Marion Hunt, M. D., Piqua candidate for Democratic nomination.

As for the roasting process, he added, Faulkner has roasted Riddle in the Enquirer and the district papers have divided on Goeke and Cunningham, leaving Hunt the honor of having escaped thus far the shafts of ridicule. The mention awarded him in Sunday's Enquirer he considers a warm boost.

"You might add," he continued, "that I hold the world's record for 22 calibre rifle shooting at 100 yards, aiming at a standard American target. In 1892 at Piqua I made 96 out of a possible hundred. I am in favor of preparedness and believe the Wilson program the golden mean between militarism and pacifism. I live in the largest republican precinct in Miami county, Piqua, Ward 3, Precinct C, but have been elected presiding judge unanimously for 34 elections."

The doctor was full to the brim

DIVORCE COURT HAS VERY BUSY MORNING

Unhappy Pairs Seek Release and Keep Judge Klinger Busy.

Although in her petition filed in court some time ago, Mrs. Bernice E. Klett of Delphos, averred that her husband, Charles E. Klett of north Metcalf street, locked her out of the house when she was expecting the small child she bore in her arms in court today, and she was compelled to seek work in a Delphos cigar factory, he was awarded a divorce in court today. Even her own people turned against her, substantiating his claim that she failed in the performance of her household duties.

W. S. Kimball of Delphos, filed petition in court today she was not represented she was unable to provide funds to secure legal counsel, it is said. She had no one to argue for her side of the case. Klett set up the charge of adultery. He secured the custody of the son, Robert Klett.

Benony McClain was granted a divorce from Elizabeth McClain, who was not in court. For three years he told the court she had been fully absent. He was given the custody of the child.

The case of Pannay M. Fisher against William A. Fisher was heard in part. Judge Klinger ordered Fisher into court to tell his story of the case.

Mary E. Miller was given a divorce from Clinton B. Miller, who was not in court. For over three years he was absent. She was given the custody of the child. The court wrote "Other Women" in big letters at the bottom of his case on the trail docket.

Katie Blaine was granted a divorce and restored to her maiden name of Slygh. Her husband, Frank E. Blaine, was not in court. The grounds were gross neglect of duty and his dower in her property as barred. She will pay the court costs.

JURY SAYS NO CAUSE OF ACTION

The jury which heard the case of Mary E. Looker, of south Pine street, against Jettie G. Bible returned a verdict of "No cause of action." Mrs. Looker claimed that a wagon which she owned was sold or taken away from her farm and that afterward Mrs. Bible came into possession of the same. She wanted the wagon returned or an amount sufficient to pay for the same.

JURY SAYS WAITE IS GUILTY OF MURDER OF FATHER IN LAW

Unfavorable Verdict is Returned Despite the Testimony of Alienists.

Short Time is Required in Reaching Decision on Guilt.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Dr. Arthur Warren Waite was today found guilty of the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, the Grand Rapids millionaire.

"Guilty of murder in the first degree," was the verdict of the jury, returned after it had been absent from the court room one hour and twenty-five minutes.

Waite was remanded to the Tombs to await imposition of sentence on June 1.

The summing up of the evidence against Dr. Arthur Warren Waite in his trial for the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, of Grand Rapids, Mich., was concluded by both defense and prosecution soon after noon today. Justice Shearn then began his charge to the jury.

He completed it at 1:20 p. m., and the jury went out to consider its verdict.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The taking of testimony in the Waite murder case was concluded this morning and Assistant District Attorney Brothers, for the prosecution, began his address to the jury.

Dr. Waite entered the court room with the same apparently resigned, nonchalant manner that has characterized his demeanor since the beginning of his trial. The prosecution, however, in its rebuttal of the testimony of the defense bearing upon Waite's alleged imbecility and idiosyncrasy, by placing on the witness stand a neurologist, Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe of New York.

He testified that he had determined from the examination of Waite that the prisoner showed no signs of defective intelligence. "He appeared as the average man of his early life and environment," said Dr. Jelliffe. "My belief is that he was an average man, somewhat superficial, inclined to be snobbish and of no great intellectual attainments. He appeared to be superficial in that he was trying to cover up, to conceal."

The district attorney called three alienists to court to state their belief that Dr. Arthur Warren Waite is sane and was shamming when he tried to make it appear that he was not mentally responsible for his acts. There were reports that the prosecution had a surprise in the person of a new witness, a former inmate of the Tombs, who helped Waite prepare for the "house" which was the most remarkable characteristic of his behavior on the stand.

The defense rested at 6:18 last night after finishing Waite's testimony and bringing two physicians to testify their belief that the prisoner was a "moral imbecile."

Both admitted Waite knew what he was doing when he plotted Mr. Peck's death, but declared he had no moral sense. Luna's of this type, they said, may easily appear like normal, rational persons.

GENERAL GALLIENI, IDOL OF THE FRENCH, DIES AT VERSAILLES

Worshipped as Man Who Saved Paris in August, 1914.

Career is Full of Notable Service at Home and Abroad.

PARIS, May 27.—General Joseph S. Gallieni, former minister of war, died at Versailles today.

The death of General Gallieni, while not unexpected, created a profound impression as he was idolized by the French people, particularly the poor, who regarded him as the savior of Paris during the critical days of August, 1914. His funeral will be the occasion of a notable military and civic demonstration.

After the notable part taken by General Gallieni in the battle of the Marne, when he rushed 80,000 troops of the Paris garrison to the battle line in taxicabs at the crisis of the struggle and thereby turned the tide of victory in favor of the French, he was appointed minister of war in the reconstructed cabinet.

As war minister General Gallieni devoted himself with remarkable energy to the elimination of red tape in the administration of the army. He also dealt with a heavy hand with officers who had secured posts through favoritism or political influence. His first act was to forbid civilians to be in the field in regard to military matters and his next was to send to the front a number of able-bodied soldiers who were occupying safe billets in the rear. Like General Joffre, he was relentless in forcing the retirement of old officers whose activities or abilities were not equal to the demands of the war. By revision of the exempt lists he added 80,000 men to the army.

In February of this year General Gallieni took over the direction of the department of aviation, but shortly afterwards he was taken ill with kidney trouble and compelled to resign on March 6. Since then he has been fighting a losing battle with death.

On August 27, 1914, with the Germans threatening Paris, he was given the important post of commander of the entrenched camp and military governor of Paris. The question of declaring Paris an open town was seriously discussed at that time. The departure of the government for Bordeaux created a great

SMALL CHANCE FOR BOY INJURED WHEN AUTO STRIKES HIM

Richard Hams, 5, Seriously Hurt Internally by Big Runaway Car.

Max Braun Mistakes Accelerator for Brake, With Bad Result.

Richard Hams, five-year-old son of Thomas Hams, 695 North West street, who was injured in the automobile accident at the corner of Grand avenue and West street, has little chance of recovery according to the latest report from the bedside of the lad. Physicians state that the right side of the lad is paralyzed and that this condition is likely to creep over the entire body. He is also internally injured.

Max Braun, owner and driver of the car that figured in the disastrous accident, claims that the cause of the loss of control was due to his lack of knowledge of the levers of the car. He states that instead of getting hold of the brake to prevent the accident he stepped on the accelerator and instead of cutting down the speed, it was increased.

According to an eye-witness of the collision, it resulted when Braun attempted to turn west on Grand avenue, just as a small car passed the intersection of the two streets going west on Grand avenue. In attempting to avert a collision, he tried to straighten his machine and continue north on West street, but lost control. The machine dashed across the sidewalk striking the Hams boy, broke through an iron fence, went up the embankment and crashed into the stone steps of the Zimmerman home, at 703 North West street. One of the large stones was broken entirely in two as a result of the impact.

All of the occupants of the Braun machine were shaken up and some scratched and bruised. They were: Mr. and Mrs. Braun and their two sons, Jerome, age nine and Darwin, age four; Mrs. Nathan Tronstein of 907 Ritchie avenue, and her two daughters, Evelyn, age six, and Dorothy, age three.

WILSON TO APPEAR FOR PREPAREDNESS BEFORE PEACE BODY

Enforcement League Will Hold Big Meeting Tonight at Capital.

Expect President to Reveal for First Time His Ideas on Peace.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—In every state, county and city in the United States branches of the League to Enforce Peace must be organized to create public sentiment favorable to this country's joining a federation of nations to minimize future wars, speakers asserted today at the league's meeting.

Strong public opinion is necessary for the success of the plan, J. Mott Hallowell, Boston lawyer explained, "first, because probably no national administration would venture to bind the United States to such a radical step unless this step were endorsed and understood by the people; second, because if any administration should so pledge the faith of our country and should afterward be called upon to make good its word, the ability to do so would depend on the strength of the public opinion endorsing the pledge."

Officers of the league planned to solicit $300,000 with which to carry on the campaign. At the proper time, a committee of the league will seek to institute movements in other countries. Theodore Marburg, of Baltimore, former minister to Belgium, called attention to the necessity of the United States having adequate army and navy forces to contribute to the common police division of the proposed league of nations.

President Wilson's address tonight was expected to give an impetus to the league's campaign plans. Many delegates today expressed the hope that the president would make an utterance which might be construed as an invitation to warring powers to consider peace terms immediately.

TIDE TURNS FOR FRENCH IN THE WEST

RE-TAKE CUMIERES AND TRENCHES OF GERMANS.

ITALIANS STILL LOSING

VIENNA REPORTS SUCCESSSES IN LATEST OFFENSIVE.

The tide of battle at Verdun has again turned in favor of the French, according to this afternoon's official bulletin from Paris.

Attacking the German lines to the west of the river Meuse, French troops have succeeded in recapturing part of the village of Cumieres, which the Germans stormed earlier in the week. Trenches northwest of the village were also reclaimed in the French attack, while on the opposite bank of the river Paris claims the repulse of a German effort to gain further ground in the neighborhood of Fort Douaumont.

Vienna announces a notable success for the Austrians in the bitter struggle being waged in the Trentino. They have captured the entire mountain ridge stretching from Corrolocampo to Maata, inflicting heavy losses on the Italians and capturing more than 2600 prisoners, besides four cannon and as many machine guns.

Rome officially reports the Italians making a determined stand which held the Austrians in check in all but one sector of the front. An Italian retreatment from an advanced position on the Asiatic front is admitted. It is in this sector that the Austrians have been carrying the heaviest pressure and in the Asiatic sector along this front the Rome war office records the continuance of the battle with varying fortunes. The main Austrian attack here is on the Italian positions east of the Asa valley.

The sinking of the Italian steamer Moravia, of 2268 tons, by a German submarine is reported from Paris. The British Danewood also has been sunk.

GERARD SEES PEACE.

U. S. Ambassador Confident That End of Struggle is Near.

BERLIN, May 26, (via London) May 27.—United States Ambassador James Gerard is convinced that peace is in sight, according to an interview published in a Munich newspaper today from its Berlin correspondent. Mr. Gerard is quoted as saying:

"Nothing can shake my confidence that peace is on its way."

The ambassador referred to the settlement of the differences of the United States and Germany as preparing the way for President Wilson to take up the question of peace. "President Wilson," he said, "has much greater freedom of action now to deal with the immense world problem which will determine the future attitude of nearly all the countries of the globe."

"It is useless to discuss at this moment the question as to whether President Wilson's intermediation is desirable or probable. In this instance facts alone must speak and one of the most important facts is that the neutrals are probably as much interested in bringing about an early peace as the belligerents. America urgently needs peace and for this reason alone the American government is under an obligation to its citizens to do and support everything that serves the cause of peace. A fact of chief importance is that my government is really willing to take action for the promotion of peace."

"I am very optimistic regarding the progress already made of the idea that the war should be ended, even among the belligerent nations. The wise and moderate words of the German chancellor regarding Germany's readiness to make peace had probably their strongest echo in America and strength in the impression that Germany will take all further steps calmly and with confidence."

"When another step will be taken and what shape the further development of the peace idea will take is not clear. At any rate I am convinced that my government will leave nothing undone to support with all its power peace movements from whatever side they come. Even although weeks or months may elapse before the thought takes tangible form, nothing can shake my confidence that peace is on its way."

JURY IN R. R. CASE UNABLE TO AGREE

Lester Morton's $20,000.00
Suit Against Erie Not Yet Settled.

The jury which heard the trial of Lester L. Morton against the Chicago and Erie railroad informed the court at a little after eleven o'clock today they could not arrive at a decision. They were dismissed by the court.

Trial of the case began Monday before Judge John P. Bailey of Ottawa. Morton was asking for $20,000 damages for injuries received while he was a passenger on the railroad. He was standing on the platform of the car, when the train moved, throwing him off and he sustained injuries which resulted in the amputation of a foot.

The railroad company contested the suit on the grounds that Morton trespassed on their property, as passengers are not allowed to stand upon the rear platform.

The jury took the case early Friday morning. They were allowed to retire to their homes for sleep after they could not reach a decision up to late last night.

Deliberation was begun this morning, with a report to the court at 11 o'clock.

For a time the vote of the jury stood 5 to 7, but the votes the last several times showed that the body was 6 for bringing in a verdict for the plaintiff and 6 were opposed to this action.

The case has previously been heard in common pleas court and was taken to the court of appeals, which body remanded the case for re-trial in the court of common pleas.

HUGHES ENTERS RACE FOR JOB IN APPEALS COURT

with other qualifications, but paper is scarce and time fleeting, hence we cannot devote a column or two to his interview.

Ohio Northern and Western Reserve will clash in the republican primaries this year. The good young governor's opponent for the gubernatorial nomination, according to Associated Press dispatches received this morning, once played football on the team of the Cleveland university.

George W. Shaw is his name, and judging from what he says about Willis he was in the backfield in his gridiron days. Either that or tackle. In the political game he hopes to make right end.

Shaw is 38 years of age and is president and secretary of the Franklin Oil and Gas company, of Bedford. He is for home rule in taxation and announces that he will make a personal campaign in every county in the state. His petition was filed with the secretary of state this morning.

A revival of the Hughes gubernatorial boom has been inaugurated by a near-Cleveland sheet, the Brooklyn, Ohio, Herald, which devotes a long editorial to the virtues of General Oliver P. Hughes, of Hillsboro, Highland county. Hughes has been in receptive mood for several elections past, but never seemed to be able to connect with enough votes to make a showing.

The boom was started during the winter but died with his announcement that he would not run against either Cox or Harmon. Just why the "tellers" are being put out at this time is unexplained to date.

FATHER AND SON ARE SENTENCED IN COURT

Three stolen wheels were found in possession of the Martins, when Motor Cop Thomas arrested Harley son of C. R. Martin, on a warrant from an Illinois town. The bicycles were confiscated by police and taken to police headquarters, where they were claimed by their owners, Ben Roof, L. Meekling and Harry Fobensack.

WILSON TO APPEAR FOR PREPAREDNESS BEFORE PEACE BODY

The president is known to have given much thought to his address and to have prepared it carefully in advance, knowing the close scrutiny which will be given it both in this country and in the nations at war. Fully prepared speech he is to deliver tonight before League to Enforce Peace. The speech will be devoted largely to broad aspects of international situation which at least by inference will bear on the war and will lead into discussion of the fundamentals the president believes should underlie world peace. The speech is expected to reveal for the first time the president's interpretation of the world opinions on the question of peace.

A league of nations, backed by an international police force is looked upon by the president as a possible means of minimizing the danger of war. It is understood that tonight he will carefully set forth his views on the question.

ASHTON QUALIFIES AS AN INSPECTOR

Edward Ashton, city plumbing inspector, has qualified to act as temporary holder of his position through passing an examination in which he received a grade of 99.4-10 or almost perfect. This will allow him to hold the position until he passes the civil service test.

As the council just recently made arrangements for taking care of the salary for the occupant of this position, the regular civil service examination has never been given. It was thought influence of the board of health that a temporary man was appointed for the position.

Perry street, Lima, says: "I was often bothered by backache and other kidney ailments, but since I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, short use has always brought sure relief. I have often advised other kidney sufferers to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial. All railroaders who are subject to kidney ailments, would do well to use Doan's Kidney Pills."

HARD TO PLEASE BANKER BECAUSE OF IDLE CREDIT

Federal Reserve System, He Admits, Averts All Possibility of Panic.

BANK DIVIDENDS BIG
One New York Concern
Only Paid 62.6 Percent Profits.

By J. C. Hemphill.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Some people do not know when they are well off. There is Vice President Reynolds, of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago, who admits that the federal reserve system "has stabilized conditions" and "averted all possibility of panics," but protests that commercial banks such as his are suffering because it has injected "a vast amount of idle credit at a time when we did not need it or want it," in consequence of which "commercial banks such as ours have had difficulty in making much more than dividends."

That's too bad, of course; but what does Mr. Reynolds want? Most business men and investors are satisfied with dividends. The New York World is distressed about Reynolds; everybody ought to be; just as everybody ought to be about the undue condition of the New York banks. The National City Bank last year made 24.1 per cent; the Chatham Bank had to be satisfied with 37.3 per cent, the Liberty Bank somehow pulled through with 62.6 per cent and the First National Bank closed the year with a measly 71.6 per cent. The federal reserve banks only earned on an average 21.4 per cent, which was less than half the dividend declared by the First National, but the federal reserve banks were established not to do a smashing business but to divide and save and not to ruin the people who need what the financial genius of Chicago calls "idle credit."

The savings banks of New York and the Bronx pay from 3 1/2 to 4 per cent on their deposits; the savings banks of Brooklyn and Queens county, with one exception, pay 4 per cent. The national banks of New York now hold deposits amounting to about $4,000,000,000. The people who operate with this money make from 2 to 7 1/2 per cent. It would look as if they ought to be satisfied with that, and they doubtless are.

The farmers, for example, who can borrow money pay on the average, 7.75 per cent; the people who lend them this money make from 24 to 71 per cent. The rate of interest allowed by law runs from 5 to 8 per cent in the different states and by special contract from 6 to 12 per cent. In three states the legal rate of interest is 5 per cent; in 33 states, 6 per cent; in 7 states, 7 per cent; in 8 states, 8 per cent. In 6 states the rate of interest by special contract is unlimited, the bride is taken off the usurers, and, strange to say, these 6 states are regarded as among the most prosperous in the Union. It is worthy of note, however, that in these states the big borrowers are in the main confined to those enlarged in large manufacturing, not to say speculative, enterprises; but the federal reserve system was designed for the public benefit and not especially for the promotion of individual gains. And in spite of the new system of banking the banks are prosperous as they never prospered before.

According to the New York Times, which is not given to exaggeration, the ten largest national banks in that city now have gross deposits in excess of $2,100,000,000, and total resources of about $2,500,000,000. "A measure of the gain made in recent years is furnished by the fact that the total resources of these ten banks today are greater than the resources of all the national banks in the state of New York were as recently as 1910. The growth may be visualized in another direction when it is pointed out that the resources of these ten banks are now practically equal in amount to the total loans of all the national banks in the United States in 1900." Hear this, also, from The Times as a sufficient answer to the "suffering" of the Reynolds bank in Chicago. "The credit facilities of the national banks were vastly augmented by the establishment of the federal reserve bank system; and this: 'The operation of the federal reserve bank system, instead of in any way impairing the preeminence of New York as the banking center of the United States, has made it easier for New York to assume for the time being at least the position of the banking center of the world.'

This is not all. The crop outlook is favorable. The tendency of cotton fabrics is generally to higher levels; the exports of hosiery and knit goods have reached record figures and show signs of continued increase; the production of American dye stuffs is steadily increasing; the prices of wool are advancing; "the mills are well occupied with orders ahead;" "and exports of woollens and woolen apparel, formerly so trivial, are now a distinct feature of the outbound shipments," and "promise, from present indications, to show a total of more than $50,000,000 in value for the present fiscal year, which is over ten times the amount of such exports in any year preceding the war."

The big newspapers except on their editorial pages, perhaps, are all full of the enormous gains in the business of the country, the strength of our financial institutions, the abundance of profitable employment for labor, the wide extension of credit where it has always been most needed and the steadily brightening prospects of industry throughout the nation. Why make any change in the control of the political affairs of the government. What could the country expect to gain by it? An administration that has made the United States the money center of the world, that has stuffed the banks with gold, that has provided against the danger of financial panics, that has given both lenders and borrowers "a square deal," that has taken the treasury out of politics, that has only had in view efficiency in the public service, is surely entitled to the confidence of the people and their support against all the special interests now appealing to them for their votes, not in their interest but with the hope of renewing the impossible conditions that were driving this country inevitably to bankruptcy and revolution.

CASE IS DISMISSED.

The case against S. A. Lawrence, of 1155 South Metcalf street, charged with cruelly beating his 13-year-old daughter, was dismissed from the court of Justice of the Peace Hamilton, yesterday afternoon following a hearing. The office of the justice was crowded with neighbors who were called to testify.

However, the only testimony offered in the case came from the father, daughter and Mrs. A. L. Miller. The latter stated that the reason she brought the complaint against the defendant was because of the manner in which he acted when she reprimanded him for whipping the child. The daughter in her testimony stated that the whipping was just ordinary.

Preaching service will be held in the Lutheran church at West Cairo, Sunday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The Rev. W. C. Spayde, pastor, of Lima, will be in charge.

City cars will run to Cemeteries Sunday and Monday afternoons, May 28 and 29 and Tuesday, May 30 in the morning and afternoon.

MRS. DUCKRODIES AT WAPAKONETA HOME

Mrs. Elizabeth Duckro, mother of Mrs. Nicholas Pohlman of 1031 North Main street, died at her home in Wapakoneta yesterday, at the age of 82 years. For six weeks she has been ill, suffering from the infirmities of age.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kehler and was born aboard a steamship, while her parents were enroute to America from France on June 6, 1834.

Funeral services will be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock in St. Joseph's Catholic church in Wapakoneta. The remains will be interred in St. John's Catholic cemetery at Fryburg.

SECRETLY WED WIFE AWARDED DIVORCE

Anna R. Riley was granted a divorce from Harry V. Riley yesterday. The case was begun early in the morning and a recess was taken until 3 o'clock. The South Side Building and Loan association, where the couple had $1,550 on deposit, was made a party defendant in the case. Mrs. Riley brought the suit, alleging gross neglect of duty and failure to provide. She was of the Catholic faith. Riley refused to be married according to the ritual of her church and for eight years they kept their marriage a secret, she said. The ceremony took place in 1904.

Because he wanted his way about religious beliefs and she would not give up her early teachings, they separated. The court "ranted" the decree to the wife. Possession of the money will be announced later by the court.

THE SPONGE FISHERS.

In the blue waters of the Mediterranean, off the northern coast of Africa, is piled one of the few remaining trades of old-time sea romance and danger. Here for six months in the year the sponge-fishing fleets of the Greek islands make their annual catch, letting down their stalwart divers into the green gloom below to grope among the coral and the sharks for the sponges that the world uses in its bathtub.

The sponge-diver leads a hard and unenviable existence. Men speak of the fascination of those plunges into still depths—a fascination that lies deeper than the chances of quick profits—and there must indeed be some such element to induce any man to ship as a sponge diver while there is a chance for a living to be earned on terra firma.

The diver braves the perils of savage fish, of strange diseases which test his calling, of a hundred chances that may sever the thin line that means life to him, and his reward is days and weeks spent in narrow, dirty quarters, hard work when his catch is poor and no thanks when it is good. Out of the 700 divers that leave shore every year for the grounds, 60 to 100 never return.

A few sponges are taken with long grappling-hooks and dredge, a few more by naked divers who sink to the bottom by means of a weight staying under water two or three minutes, but the bulk of the catch is brought up by the men who don an air-helmet and weighted shoes to plod about the sea-bottom 50 or 60 yards below the surface for almost an hour at a time.

Sharks and dog-fish roam the lower levels of the sponge grounds and these are the chief peril of the men who dive unhelmated. The other class—the men who dive in harness—fear far more the dreaded diver's paralysis that attacks a man who is raised too suddenly from low levels and high pressure. The paralysis is caused by bubbles of air forming in the veins, and strange to say, a man thus attacked often finds his only relief when he is again under the waters.

Properly managed, with a due regard for the diver, for raising and lowering him slowly and allowing him long periods of rest, the fishing is not dangerous. It is the fierce hurry, caused by the consciousness that the profits of the whole crew and the welfare of all dependent on them, hangs on the work of a few men, that causes the diver to be sent below again and again, until he is exhausted and succumbs easily. But in return for his hardships he has long hours amid the wonders of the sea-bottom—a fairy land peopled by its creatures of dreams.

At the Orpheum tomorrow, afternoon and night, with the great emotional actress, Bertha Kalich, in the leading role. Special vaudeville between the reels. Closing of the Orpheum season.

FAUROT PICTURES.

On account of the numerous requests, Mr. Cunningham has been successful in securing the return of "Kilmeny" featuring Lenore Ulrich in this great picture for today only. The Oliver Morosco Company has found a powerful story for a powerful personality, and a powerful personality for a powerful story. It is doubtful whether so big a role as the little rich girl abducted by north of England gypsies at the age of six could have been "put over" by any less an actress than Lenore Ulrich, who has been taking the country by storm in Oliver Morosco's masterpiece of old Hawaii.

In "Kilmeny" Oliver Morosco has again fulfilled his promise to have the photoplay company bearing his name stand for All-Star casts. Supporting Lenore Ulrich are William Desmond, one of the finest leading men in the Morosco companies, Myrtle Stedman, more beautiful than ever; Herbert Standing, in a gypsy portrayal that is more than a masterpiece; Victor Bateman and a score of others.

Sunday and Monday—the good old days with their happy carefree views of life are admirably shown in the Pallas photoplay "David Garrick." The big scene in the old Nag's Head Tavern is wonderfully staged. The poet with his parchment script, the sporting gentry with their game cocks that are in deadly combat, the richly dressed gentlemen of title, the prize fight enthusiasts in friendly bout, the gambling tables with the solemn players drinking mugs, the now obsolete manners, all are of interest as being true to life touches of by gone days. This atmosphere frames a charming love story of the great David Garrick.

Tuesday and Wednesday—"The Innocent Lie," the latest of the Famous Players Paramount productions. Miss Valentine Grant, who has won distinction in several previous photodramas, appears as Nora O'Brien, a poor Irish lass. Her troubles commence upon her arrival in America when she is struck by a thug. Fortunately however, she is picked up and cared for by the Winters family, who find a note addressed to them, on her person. In a short time Nora becomes accustomed to her luxurious surroundings and happy to think her rightful identity is unknown. All her joyfulness disappears when her thieving, drunken brother appears in a chauffeur's guise. He urges her to help him plunder the Winters' residence, which she refuses to do. Threatened with disclosure, Nora accedes to his demand and takes refuge in her brother's quarters.

Thursday and Friday—Ethel Barrymore, who occupies a place all her own on both the screen and stage, will appear in the Metro wonderplay, "The Kiss of Fate." This is a powerful document of Russian life. The scenes are in the snow fields, the journey of a prison squad to Siberia is extraordinary. The Cosack are seen prodding the poor unfortunates along and driving them like a lot of cattle. There are scores of intensely dramatic situations and many interesting glimpses of the Yellow Jackets, an infamous band of cut-throats. The methods of torture employed by those in power to gain their ends are presented in a realistic manner.

Saturday only—Jesse L. Lasky presents Ina Claire and Carlyle Blackwell in "Puppet Crown," in addition the great Paramount Pictorials.

ORPHEUM.

Mme. Bertha Kalich, the greatest tragedienne, will be seen in a new William Fox feature picture, entitled "Slander" at the Orpheum theatre, tomorrow. Spoken of as Bernhardt's only rival, she is to be seen in William Fox films only for a number of years. Tomorrow, marks the closing of the season of the Orpheum, after what is probably one of the most successful seasons this popular play house has ever had. In addition to the great picture feature, "Slander," two special acts of vaudeville, booked for the one day only will be offered on the program, making a most enjoyable Sunday entertainment.

Bertha Kalich on her last appearance in Lima, appeared in the spoken drama appearing at the Faurot in "The Kreutzer Sonata" under the management of that great producer Harrison Grey Fisk, and will be long remembered in the city for her wonderful emotional acting in this artistic production. Her appearance in the William Fox feature picture "Slander" marks her first appearance in the motion picture field in this city. All lovers of genuinely good acting should take advantage of the opportunity to see this wonderful actress in what is pronounced by the press of the larger cities as a masterpiece of the motion picture world.

One performance only Sunday afternoon, starting promptly at 2:30. Continuous at night from 7 p. m. Special vaudeville numbers between the reels, which relieves the eye strain of pictures continuously. The Orpheum is nice and cool, several degrees cooler than the street temperature. The closing of the Orpheum season.

THAT PREPAREDNESS PARADE

Lima is to have a demonstration proving the interest of the citizens in adequate preparedness for national defense. It is to be hoped that the proof will be sufficiently large to answer the peace-at-any-price and turn-the-other-check element which would rather be defeated than safe. At any rate the idea is a good one.

The European war has taught many lessons, but the gravest is that of adequate national defense. Every nation which maintains an army of appreciable size is doing better than the unprepared. Germany's conquests have been successful against Belgium, the Balkan territory and under-equipped Russia. Against France there is no headway, for the fighting Frank is able to care for himself. England's sorry failure at Gallipoli and in Asia Minor is equalled by the weakness of the Turks against Grand Duke Nicholas in Mesopotamia. Everywhere the American observer finds evidence of the truth of Napoleon's utterance that Providence is on the side of the heavier artillery.

Not until the outbreak of the present war did the United States awaken to the lesson. Immediately visionary pacifists proclaimed the virtues of disarmament, sincerely believing that the other nations had nothing to do with it. If we were peaceable and unprotected, they argued, we would never get into war. They forgot that peace depends on more than one party.

Let Lima get behind this movement for all there is in it. Show that there are still a few Americans of the old school, who know the value of defense and are willing to fight if necessary. Let the pacifists stand on the sidewalk, watching the procession of Americans elevate the nose at the weaker and less patriotic bystanders. That will be a wholesome lesson to the opponents of reasonable preparedness for national defense.

LIBERTY LIGHT

New York is responding generously to a campaign started by The World to illuminate the pedestal of Bartholdi's great statue of Liberty enlightening the world, as well as to increase the power of the light in her torch. This recalls the fact that Joseph Pulitzer by personal campaign through his paper raised the funds to provide the pedestal and the donation of Bedloe's Island.

Today the great goddess is given in color and marred by the signatures of vandal visitors. There will always be a section of the nation determined to leave names in public places. Towering high above the Upper Bay with her back appropriately turned toward New Jersey, she holds a torch which can not be distinguished at Coney or Sing Harbor, Staten Island. What the World hopes to do is to restore the bronze finish of thirty years ago, make the light as strong as that of the Woolworth or Metropolitan towers and make Liberty once more the proud guardian of the gateway to the national metropolis.

The movement deserves applause for the familiar "Statue of Liberty" is better known and more universally recognized than any monument or work of sculpture in the nation. Not only is the size great, but it stands for the spirit of the country—freedom and education. It is the first spectacle to confront the immigrant, it is true, but Sandy Hook's giant guns and the park at Coney divide into insignificance beside the great goddess on Bedloe's Island, welcoming the arrival and typifying his new opportunities. Before the newcomer gets a close view of Lower Manhattan's towers, he is discharged at Ellis Island with a new thought in his brain, his first idea of Liberty. Surely such an emblem deserves a new robe and a brighter night with which to enlighten the globe. There is far more patriotism in donating to that cause than in wrangling over patronage, playing for political preferment or framing secret deals for under-serve offices. The espousal of such causes as this has made the World the superior of her neighbors on Park Row and Times Square.

THE SHELL GAME

Do you remember the old time sharpers who hit the county fairs with three shells and a pea, separating urban and rural "suckers" from their hard-earned wealth by clever manipulation of the pill? Do you remember how easy it seemed to the "come-on" and how rarely he won after the first few tastes of bait? Doesn't it remind you of the way the Republicans are situated at present?

The G. O. P., however, is both sharper and "fish". While the party is trying to bunko the nation with meaningless platitudes one T. Roosevelt is working the pea into position under the wrong shell for the party to miss it. We hear talk of unified party efforts one day, and on the next Teddy jumps into the fight to rule or ruin, stating that unless the party goes down to defeat with him on the third term issue he will repeat his famous action of four years ago by running a rival ticket headed by himself. What is the poor party to do?

What it is doing is this: it steals the Wilson platform of preparedness for national defense, in the face of the Republican record of constant reduction of army appropriations in order to build great federal buildings at crossroads villages; it advocates stricter foreign policy, which can mean only war, while at the same time declaring that Wilson wants war, meaning that the party is also opposed to protection of Americans on armed merchantmen; it declares that our prosperity is due to the war while also denying that the original depression was due to the war instead of to the Underwood-Simmons tariff. In other words, the G. O. P. is trying to bunko the public while the First Citizen of Oyster Bay is trying to bunko the party.

But in November there will be a raid. Both Bunko-fakirs will be taken into custody, while Officer Wilson sentences the mulefactors to four years in oblivion, far removed from the jobs. And the jury, the American public, will applaud the decision.

The man who gets in early with his candidacy papers is apt to be a prompt and efficient public servant. Those who wait to the last minute may have noticed that the public keeps close tab on the doings at the office of the board of elections.

Perhaps the young lady who is bothered by mosquitos merely likes to show that she is attractive, while the one who never minds them is gently hinting that the man is question might just as well throw away that nasty cigaret.

Wouldn't it be nice if some of the men who save the nation every fall by running for office would devote more time to boosting the town, paying full taxes and keeping their small bills cleared up?

There was a day when girls had to wear a dozen garments to preserve standing in the community. Now they can be stylish and popular without wearing enough to flag a freight train.

Wonder how many pacifists will talk with the same old loudness and verbosity after seeing that preparedness parade?

GOOD EVENING: You don't have to stay there when it's 90 in the shade.

NEW MOVIELAND

NOTES BY DAISY DEAND

KNOWN AS "The King of the Comic Opera Stage," Frank Daniels is now enlivening moving picture fans by a droll and, peculiarly subtle comedy, and dabble facial contortions.

It was as "Peck's Bad Boy" that Mr. Daniels first came into the public's eye, and from that time his has been a continued stream of success. He has appeared in "The Bells of Brittany," "Omar Khayyam," "Hook of Holland," and "Sergeant Blue." Equally effective has been his work on the screen. As Mr. Jack in "The Escapees of Mr. Jack," as "Crooky" in the convict comedy of the same name, and in his laugh provoking comicities in "What Happened to After," Mr. Daniels has established himself firmly in the hearts of screen fans.

Norma Talmadge in "Going Straight" "Going Straight" is the title of the new Norma Talmadge picture which will be released by the Triangle in June. The drama aims to solve the problem confronting a respectable man who has a criminal past to live down. Miss Talmadge is the wife of the man, played by Ralph Lewis, and Eugene Pallette is a crook who lives by blackmailing his former pals.

Bernard McConville, the author, has provided a scenario that indicates great dramatic strength. His crook, Jimmy Briggs, recognizes in John Remington his former pal in many a dangerous and profitable job. Remington's wife was also a member of the gang but both are going straight when Jimmy comes into their life again. Cut backs emphasize the contrast between the old life of the Remingtons and the new. The element of suspense is said to be well developed in the action.

"Going Straight" is the fourth picture Miss Talmadge has completed since she went to the coast to join the Triangle players. "The Missing Links," "Martha's Vindication" and "The Children in the House" were the earlier releases.

Virginia Pearson, the star of "Blazing Love," has carried her silhouette far farther than ever. In addition to wearing silhouette beauty spots of her friends, she now has a silhouette for the stocking and a silhouette handkerchief. Both attract liberal attention, which may be the purpose for which she invented them.

Mae Murray, beautiful Laskey-Paramount star, is getting acquainted with southern California. In the three months that she has been there, Miss Murray has not had a day's vacation, excepting an occasional Sunday. Since the conclusion of her first picture, however, she has motored to San Diego and is now taking little trips about the country.

Lillian Gish has two hobbies—collecting rare books and playing golf. When eight years old she appeared with Sarah Bernhardt as a fairy dancer and continued with her for two years.

What Other Papers Say

SENATOR POMERENE TO THE CITY CLUB

Senator Pomerene's address to the Cleveland City club on Saturday was the well-timed utterance of a thorough American. His exposition of neutrality as practiced by the United States government toward the European belligerents could not have been clearer, more forceful or more indicative of the patriotism of the senior senator from Ohio.

To Mr. Pomerene's credit it may be said that no member of congress, senator or representative, has pursued a more courageous, just and patriotic course under the trying conditions of the past few months than he. He has conceived it the duty of every American to stand by American rights, to defend American honor, in the face of the world and to keep his allegiance to the flag of the republic undivided.

"It seems to me," declared the senator, "we ought to be American enough to stand by our American institutions or European enough to go to the trenches."

Here is a challenge to every un-American who at a crisis like this, while continuing to enjoy the protection of the American government, denounces the government, casts mean aspersions on those who conduct the government and yet lack the honesty openly to transfer their allegiance and "go to the trenches". For un-Americans of whatever kind Senator Pomerene has nothing but contempt. He neither fears nor respects them. He refuses to be stampeded by their dishonest pronouncements. He will not surrender his honor as an American to their un-Americanism.

And Mr. Pomerene stands precisely where every loyal son and daughter of America stands and has stood since the beginning of the European war. Let there be no mistake on this point. The United States is not made up of citizens of divided allegiance. The noise of the disloyalists is wholly out of proportion to their numbers. Ohio, without regard to politics, has every reason to be proud of the part that her senior senator has played in the months of this acute war situation. Mr. Pomerene has not been a party man, but an American. He has weighed every question in the scale of his own loyal devotion to the government and people of the United States. He has been one of the defenders of our national honor.

Against a sense of national duty such as Senator Pomerene possesses the petty storms of un-Americanism will beat in vain. He calls Americans to their duty—to the duty of standing by their institutions, by their ideals and by the government that voices them. And those who permit themselves to be blinded by whatever influence to this prime obligation, belong, not in the United States at a time like this, but in the trenches of Europe.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FOOT POSTURE GOVERNS THE BODY POSITION

Like the child's toy house built with blocks, the foot stands when the balance is maintained and becomes weak and wobbly when a single block is moved sufficiently to disturb the balance.

In correct position the foot carries the weight of the body with a wide margin of strength to spare. Change the posture and the demand upon this reserve strength becomes often too great to be permanently borne.

Is Under Strain

The foot is then under a strain. It drags, becomes painful and finally, by yielding to the ligaments, the shape of the foot is altered, its efficiency is impaired and our whole physical being feels the loss of a stable foundation.

Body posture directly influences the maintenance of foot comfort. Foot posture has a direct bearing upon correct attitude of the body.

The old method of toeing out, as taught to the recruits of the army, in civil war times, was really a position of weakness. To utilize its power to best advantage, the walking position of the foot should be with little or no outward pointing of the toes. In standing a slight turning out of the toes is permissible.

Need Low Heels. To add to foot comfort, shoes should not cramp the ball of the foot. The heels should be low and broad, to give stability without calling upon the muscles to maintain balance.

Mechanically, the foot is a wonderful creation. But, like all delicate mechanisms it must be kept in good condition and used intelligently or its efficiency disappears.

THE LITTLE GREEN TENTS.

The little green tents where the soldiers sleep, and the sunbeams play and the women weep, are covered with flowers today; and between the tents walk the weary few who were young and stalwart in 'sixty-two, when they went to the war away.

The little green tents are built of sod, and they are not long and they are not broad; but the soldiers have lots of room; and the sod is part of the land they saved, when the flag of the enemy darkly waved.

The symbol of dole and gloom. The little green tent is a thing divine; the little green tent is a country's shrine, where patriots kneel and pray, and the brave men left, so old, so few, weer young and stalwart in 'sixty-two, when they went to the war away.

—Walt Mason.

Memorial Sunday will be observed in many of Lima's churches and the significance of the occasion told in stirring words to younger worshippers. Mart Armstrong post of veterans, with auxiliary patriotic societies, will attend services in a body both in the morning and afternoon. They will worship at the First Christian church at 10:30 o'clock, when the Rev. W. J. Young, pastor, will give the sermon. He will have for his subject, "The Dream of Civilization."

In the evening at 7:30 o'clock, the post and auxiliary societies will attend services at St. Paul's Lutheran church. The Rev. Ernest A. Traber, pastor, will speak from the subject, "True Patriotism." Each church where the services are held, will be presented a handsome flag by Mrs. Minnie Jacobs, patriotic instructor.

The services will be featured by special music in tune with the story of the day, which will come from the voice of sweet-voiced singers. The churches will be decked with flowers in commemoration of the honor due living heroes.

The Rev. Thomas Knox, pastor of Market Street Presbyterian church, will devote both of his sermons on Sunday to patriotic instruction. In the morning he will speak on "Shall We Make Thorough Military Preparation?" and in the evening his subject is, "True Freedom."

The Rev. G. W. Lilly, at the High Street United Brethren church in the evening, will speak on "The Blessings of Patriotism."

At the First Baptist church, in the evening, the Rev. Franklin A. Stiles, pastor, will commemorate Memorial Sunday and his subject will be, "Consideration of Our Country."

The Rev. W. E. Spayde of the First Lutheran church, will deliver a sermon appropriate to Memorial day on Sunday morning.

The Rev. C. S. Bucher, pastor of the First Congregational, will observe the season of Memorial day with a special service in the morning. He will speak on "What Mean These Stones?"

A Memorial service will be held in the evening at Calvary Reformed church, when the Rev. W. A. Alspach, pastor, will speak on "Patriotism and Christianity."

The Rev. M. C. Howey of Epworth Methodist church, will devote his morning subject to a memorial in honor of war veterans.

Ladies of the Grand Army, wives and widows of veterans will assemble at the Central Church of Christ on West North street, Sunday morning, for their annual memorial services. The sermon will be given by the pastor, the Rev. A. B. Houze, who will speak on the subject, "Unsung Heroines."

The coming of Bishop Frank B. DuMoulin of Toledo, to Christ church, Episcopal, Sunday afternoon augurs well for a day of importance in this parish. The services of confirmation and the services which the bishop will conduct following, are set for 2:30 o'clock.

The bishop comes to Lima from Bellefontaine, where, in the morning, he will confirm a class and conduct morning prayer at Holy Trinity church, where the Rev. John Williamson is rector.

Upon several occasions Dr. DuMoulin, who is bishop co-adjutor of the Northern Ohio diocese, has spoken in Lima and his sermons have been cause for the most appreciative encomiums, not only from members of the parish, but those outside, who have heard him. He will have a wonderful message tomorrow.

Dr. Arthur M. Griffin, rector of Christ church, is arranging for the confirmation services. Special music will be a feature of the service. Seats are free and all are welcome to hear the bishop.

The Rev. Father John Mizer, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, will head a delegation of several hundred pilgrims, who will journey tomorrow to the shrine of Our Lady of Consolation at Carey. A special train, passing south Lima at 7:00 o'clock and the uptown station of the Lake Erie at 7:07, will convey the large party. Delphos pilgrims will join the party here for the trip.

Mass will be celebrated after the arrival of the Lima party at Carey. This is the last day of the special week of services at the shrine, where the sick, the lame, the deaf and the weak find comfort, consolation and cure.

The Rev. Father Mizer was for 25 years pastor of the church where the shrine is located. The return trip will be made Sunday evening. The candle procession in the evening closes the services at the shrine.

Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs, bishop of the Toledo diocese, confirmed a large class and celebrated mass for hundreds of visitors at the shrine on Thursday.

Tickets must be secured of the Rev. Father Mizer, or a member of the committee and exchanged at the railroad station for tickets good for the trip. No tickets can be purchased at either station in Lima.

A beautiful service has been planned at the First United Brethren church on Sunday. Members of the home department of the church will be present in the Sunday school in a class of their own. Mothers and babies making up the Cradle Roll will be in their own class.

A special recognition service for both will be held. These will be the future members of the church. The Rev. O. E. Knapp is pastor.

COMMITTEE AGREES ON ARMY PROVISION

House Military Body Unites on $145,000,000 For Defense Reorganization.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—The army appropriation bill, carrying $145,000,000 and including provision for carrying out the Hay-Chamberlain reorganization bill was agreed to by the house military committee.

The bill includes provision for a council of executive information for co-ordination of industries and resources in war time.

Democratic house leaders prepared a rule to close all debate on the naval appropriation bill today at 4 p. m. The bill probably will be called up Saturday.

Republican members of the house naval affairs committee in a minority report submitted to the house denounced the $241,000,000 naval appropriation bill reported by the majority as wholly inadequate, and urged more liberal allowances to make the United States navy second in the world.

The majority charged that the military report ignored opinions of naval experts and recommendations of Secretary Daniels, and was based on a compromise between interests which wanted no additional naval protection and those which wanted only a slight increase.

The republicans recommended that the bill provide for two dread-

Among the past social events all have been given their turn by the women of Lima's social set. To start out the season with so much festivity seems to be a good omen, especially when one counts up the things that are going to happen along the same line. There are still luncheons, bridges, teas, dances and parties to come.

Nor is the sweet girl graduate forgotten in the whirl of her older sister. Many houseparties and week-end visits will be the outcome of the June graduate. Also the June bride will have her share of the festivities, and recalling the announcements of the coming marriages of many of the younger set, it can easily be believed that this will be one of the gayest seasons Lima has had.

Devotees of the out-of-doors will be more than satisfied with her lot this summer, and again Lima takes her place as foremost in athletics, as well as music, and most everything else. Of especial interest to the members of the Shawnee Country club will be the match between the women golfers of Dayton and Lima next Thursday at the Shawnee club. The probable line-up for the occasion will be: Miss Gertrude Finley, captain; Mrs. R. W. Thrift, Mrs. J. C. Linneman, Mrs. W. B. Van Note, Miss Rose Agerton, Mrs. T. D. McLaughlin, Mrs. W. L. Lima's first vocational school held for six weeks last summer in the high school building was such a success that the home economics department of the Lima Federated clubs redoubled their efforts for the school this summer. Their May day entertainment raised a fund sufficient to make it possible to have more teachers, and the school board has kindly granted them permission to use the equipment of not only the high school, but also the sewing department of Whittier building.

The school will open on July 1 and continue for six weeks, ending August 16. The terms will be the same as last year, one dollar for either sewing or cooking, or one dollar and fifty cents for both courses.

The classes are open to all women and girls of Lima and vicinity. The teachers will be young women who have graduated from Lima high school and have become qualified for the work away from Lima. Before the committee can complete plans for the summer course it will be necessary to have a complete list of names of pupils.

It seemed to be full of her and her multitudinous things. It was not their bedroom, it was hers, and he realized that it would take all his talent for orderliness to make himself comfortable in the limited space she had allowed him to have for his own. Though he felt like an invader, it was a delicious experience. He thought: "This is a fitting house for her grace and beauty I must buy it." He desired to be senselessly extravagant, to surround her with all luxury, to be splendidly generous with her. "I've got to succeed financially. She must have everything. One has but to look at her to see that luxury belongs to her," he thought.

"Where am I to sit to change my shoes? Every last chair is full of your paraphernalia."

"What an old fusser you are, Ralph," exclaimed the girl, tossing back her hair and clearing a chair by dumping the garments it held on to the foot of the bed. As she passed him he caught her white arms in both hands and drew her toward him. She lifted her face to him and gave him a hurried kiss.

MORBIDEYES

I WONDER why it is that when a crowd gathers at a street corner and word is passed around that a mangled body lies under an automobile men, women, children and even mothers with babies in their arms will rush like mad to the spot and fight as if they were fleeing to safety just to get a peek at the unfortunate victim.

It is just as surprising to me to notice that there are more women in the crowd than men. Perhaps it is because women so seldom see tragedies and, naturally curious, are afraid they will miss something, while men, who are ever living the great adventure of life, are thrown often into contact with human suffering.

Some women faint, other women have fortitude and some will offer their assistance, but most of them, after fighting to reach the axis of the trouble, sickened and turn away.

I have always lived in such fear that I might have to see some accident where men, women and children must suffer, and knowing I could lend no aid as a competent nurse, I am always inclined to fly from rather than pursue the crowd.

One afternoon, we were out location taking a picture. It was supposed to be the scene of a man half murdered by the villain, crawling out of the house and into a street to summon the policeman. We hoped to take a scene quickly before the crowd came aware that the moving picture camera was hidden in a large, empty covered ice wagon.

It was rehearsed at the studio and the actors made up in one of the cant rooms of the house. The moment for the scene arrived. The camera could be heard grinding on its feet of film, when the door of the house swung open and our actor, with grease paint wound hurried himself down the steps, missing his lips as if he were crying "Help!" but really uttering a sound for fear of arousing the neighborhood.

If we have expected to get by with this scene we were sadly mistaken. As two minutes later the street came a veritable beehive of swarming, buzzing, curious people. Men and women were fighting and kill-

BREAD—the Real Health Food

When a woman is cooking, it is but little additional trouble for her to bake her own bread. Home-made bread is the purest, most wholesome and inexpensive of foods.

Bread is the ideal food—very easy to digest, wholesome and nutritious. And it is the most economical of foods. It yields nearly twice as much nourishment as rice or potatoes and several times as much as an equal value of cheese, fish or beef.

Everybody should eat plenty of good bread.

ing at each other's shins, elbowing and pushing their way through the scrambling mass to get to the spot where they could actually see the blood upon the victim of the assault.

The cry of "Murder!" went up from the crowd and echoed down the street with almost the same joyous note as a small boy would sing out, "Circus parade!"

Little, frail, delicate-looking women fairly became fends in their anxiety to edge past the crowd so that they might see the injured man. Most of them were shuddering, all of them were wild and scare-eyed, but nothing would deter them from their purpose.

They took part in the scene and playing the daughter of the man, was in the heart of the crowd when this bargain sale onslaught caught me in its mesh.

"Who committed the murder?" "Where is the murderer?" "Where are the police?" "What's his name?" "Who are you?" "Why are you here?" "You don't look as if you did it." "Did you do it?"

This was drummed into my ears until I was almost deafened by the sound, and in another two minutes I would have been trampled under their feet if the policemen had not ridden down in full force to scatter the crowd.

"My lan," voices cried out several women, their voices ringing with disappointment. "It's only moving pictures, after all!"

Story of One Good Woman's Life Work

How Lucy M. Burd, Without Money or Wealthy Friends, Has Established a Home That is Saving Many Boys From Vagrancy and Prison Cells.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Copyright, 1916, Star Co.

Our daily life teems with tales of sad, bad and foolish women who make mistakes and do evil deeds, and spoil their own lives and the lives of others.

But in spite of these o'er-true dark tales,

the world is starred with beautiful souls, doing beautiful work in the vineyard of the Lord.

Here is the story of one woman who consecrated her life to God through service to humanity.

Her name is Lucy M. Burd, and she has an industrial school in Bodminster, Pennsylvania.

To a friend who asked her for an account of her undertakings she wrote the following interesting letter.

It will be an inspiration to all who are striving against difficulties to accomplish some worthy purpose:

"Twelve years ago I left Philadelphia with a boy thirteen, who had not slept in a bed or eaten at a table for two years.

My object was to start a home for unfortunate and misunderstood children. I had neither money nor interested friends to help me.

"We arrived at the farm on a cold day, followed by a colder night. The conditions were what most people would have thought well-nigh impossible for the making of a home.

I had invested $50 in furniture, and soon we had the coziest room I think I ever saw.

"There was neither rich carpet nor costly furniture—just plain things which meant home.

"A man and his wife lived in one end of the farmhouse, but vacated it in a few weeks. This left the entire house to us. The owner lived in Doylestown. He loaned me the house, a portion of ground and left some stock at the barn for us. The little fellow took a vital interest in everything; but neither of us knew how to milk so we were obliged to hire a girl from a neighboring farm to teach us. He soon learned to milk quite well and do the work at the barn.

"At first our home was open only to juvenile court boys. It only took a few weeks before we numbered seventeen, and then twenty, which was all we could care for. We learned to economize in every possible way. I remember one little fellow, who did the milking and thought we were using more milk than he could afford to let us have, suggested that we do without milk on our oatmeal for a week. Strange to say every boy was willing. At the same time he insisted on the cats having their full share. This we can do what we will to be. We can do what we will to be."

"Only the other day I heard a man say: 'If I had my time to go over, how differently I would do!'

Showing us that a deficit when the day closes means a deficit when life ends.

"Seven years ago a little blue-eyed, light-haired girl came to live with me. She has been a great help in making our home pleasant. We had a great deal to learn to know how to live together and be happy. She was able to throw sunshine across the path of many a little child. Tonight she is writing this letter to you on the typewriter. Tomorrow morning she goes to West Chester to enter the Normal school. We hope to have her come back as a teacher for our school."

Surely this true story is more interesting than many a great work of fiction. I wish it might go straight to the heart of some millionaire philanthropist and bring to Lucy M. Burd the strong financial support which her splendid work deserves.

little fellow has since graduated from the Philadelphia Trades school as an electrician.

"The first year we had a hard financial struggle. All we had to depend on was a little money that a few of the boys could pay, with a small amount of my own, to provide food and clothing, besides furnishing the house. The boys became interested in all the farm work and were anxious to see how much they could do.

"At the beginning of the second year we had the entire farm of 120 acres. By this time we had made a few friends, who contributed something. While we did not have the means to provide teachers, we found it most difficult, at times, to do the work and keep the boys interested. Occasional runaways would result, but they were always anxious to get back, and would describe their trips with the greatest interest. We have now bought the farm and have the privilege of paying for it.

"I know you would like to know more about the success of the work. There are two ways of measuring success. The one, Making a Life; the other, Making a Living. Today, with shrewd business ideas, one can make a living and accumulate great wealth. To make a life requires finer workmanship. When the sun goes down we have no bookkeeper able to balance the profit and loss sheet. If there is a deficit it cannot be made up by shaving a little here and a little there. It is lost forever.

"Only the other day I heard a man say: 'If I had my time to go over, how differently I would do!'

Showing us that a deficit when the day closes means a deficit when life ends.

Hall's Method of Conscious Anesthesia in reducing and preventing pain is owned, controlled and administered ONLY in Dr. Hall's Office. It is the modern miracle and its Wizard-like effects in preventing pain are as startling as it is effective.

If you are still in ignorance of the fact that the practice of dentistry has been revolutionized during the past few months by a new and wonderful system that absolutely eliminates pain, you should investigate this modern method at once.

EXTRACTING TEETH.

An aching tooth is a diseased tooth and should receive instant attention. Where extraction is necessary, Hall's Conscious Anesthesia renders the operation free from any painful sensation. Patients frequently have several teeth extracted without being aware that the work is completed.

The Hall Specialties consist of painless, expert extraction of teeth, correcting irregular or crooked teeth, the treatment of pyorrhea, filling and crowning of teeth and bridge-work and plates, either partial or full sets. Careful service at a reasonable price is guaranteed.

PYORRHEA

CROWN, PLATE AND BRIDGE WORK

This important phase of dentistry has reached the highest degree of efficiency under the Hall System. Missing teeth are replaced in such a manner as to give all the appearance and service of natural, healthy teeth.

The most widespread disease in the world today is that dread affection of the teeth called pyorrhea. Matter or pus around the teeth poisons the blood and ruins the general health—Causes cancer of the stomach, indigestion, nervous ailments and many other dangerous diseases. No ordinary methods can stop the formation of pus. The only successful treatment by which this dangerous and disgusting feature of Pyorrhea can be permanently removed is by a combination of local and systematic treatment by Dr. Hall's exclusive methods.

When the teeth and gums are sensitive and irritated Hall's Conscious Anesthesia is used, rendering possible the most difficult and delicate treatment without pain.

GOMPERS DECLARES LABOR ALWAYS HAS TO BEAR WAR LOAD

Outlines International Principles Before League to Enforce Peace.

Declines to Commit Organized Workers to Any Foreign Program.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27.—Labor has borne most of the burden growing out of wars in the past, with little to say in regard to the declaring of wars or their conduct, and in the peace of the future labor must have an increasing voice, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address here last night at the first annual assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace.

Mr. Gompers outlined five principles which he declared "represent not only the international program for which labor will work in the future, but for which labor has been contending through the years." These principles, he said, are as follows:

"1. It must be a program under which the military forces of the world will be rescued from the dictation of arbitrary autocracy and absolute secret diplomacy and dedicated to the maintenance of a higher standard of morals, law and justice; a program that will safeguard the use of military power that it cannot be used by the reactionary forces of privilege in imperialistic aggression, or dragged like a red herring across the path of democratic progress.

"2. It must be a program elastic enough to admit of those fundamental changes that the growing life of the world makes inevitable. Any international arrangement that does not afford peaceful methods of securing the results that now can be achieved only by successful fighting will make little headway against war. Labor will oppose any federation of nations so organized that the more powerful nations can use the machinery to maintain the status quo against the demands for change made in the interest of democracy and larger opportunity for the masses.

"3. It must be a program under which the small nation, as well as the large nation, will have a free hand in every just and individual development; a program that will make it impossible for a few strong nations to dictate the policies and development of the world. It must not deny to small and dependent states that final right of revolution that sometimes is the only road to justice and freedom.

"4. It must be a program that will give the masses greater influence in those decisions that plunge nations into war; that is to say, a program under which the powers of autocracy and absolute secret diplomacy cannot, over night, rush a nation into war before the citizenship of the nation has a chance to express itself.

"5. It must be a program under which the international machinery that is created will afford a medium through which all classes of society can voice their judgment and register their demands. We must not delude ourselves into thinking that the international problem will be solved entirely by the establishment of an international court along traditional lines, presided over by lawyers to pass judgment upon violations of established international law. The fact is that the real causes of modern wars are not so much violations of established law, as they are conflicts over new problems and new needs that have not yet become a part of international law. So that any adequate international program must include the establishment of a system of stated international conferences in which the representatives of such democratic interests as labor and business men can present and discuss, not under any established rules of evidence but in the spirit of impartial examination, those difficulties and differences that threaten to give rise to war."

Mr. Gompers declared that insofar as the program of the League to Enforce Peace represented an effort to meet the conditions he had outlined, it demanded the interest and careful scrutiny of every man who had the interests of labor at heart. "It is not for me, by word of mouth, to commit the laboring men of America to any particular program in international affairs.

"Since such a court or league as contemplated appears to be the inevitable goal toward which the whole evolution of law and government is tending, the laboring men of this and every other nation will feel their duty and privilege to lift their voice in counsel at every step of the plans and propaganda, in order to make more certain the triumph of democratic principles and mothers in whatever final form such an international institution may take."

deal of uneasiness and all those who were in the capital at the time recall the feeling of relief and revival of confidence following the posting of Gallieni's proclamation in which he declared: "I have received the mission of defending Paris against the invader; I shall accomplish that mission to the end."

At once his organizing ability and energy were shown. In a few days the city was surrounded by new field fortifications, heavy artillery was posted at all vantage points, a complete system of telephonic and telegraphic communication was established around the city. The part he played in the Battle of the Marne is partly known; how on a Sunday, while von Kluck's lightning-like advance was progressing, he sent 50,000 men of the troops of the army of Paris, in taxi motor-cars, across the town, out to the spot where General Maunoury was assembling his army and brought his forces up to a strength that enabled him to fall upon von Kluck's flank and protection and start the great victory of the Marne.

Of all the French generals in the European war few had a better filled life than General Gallieni. Born of a military family at St. Beat, April 24, 1849, he had reached the age limit for retirement in 1913, but was maintained in active service by decree, the minister of war holding that the services he had rendered as governor general of Madagascar justified an exception generally made only in favor of generals who have held a supreme command in face of the enemy.

In the 45 years of his military career, Gallieni had participated in some of the dramatic episodes of the war of 1870, explored the Upper Niger and imposed a French protectorate over the region, pacified the colony of Indo-China, deposed Queen Ranavalona of Madagascar and conquered and developed the colony. Between times he had written four notable books on exploration.

Two years after his graduation from the academy at Saint-Cyr in 1868, Gallieni received his baptism of fire as a second lieutenant of marine infantry at Bizet. He was at the side of Commandant Lambert who with a handful of men opposed a heroic resistance to the Bavarians at the house called "Les Dornieres Cartouches" (the Last Cartridges)—after the famous painting of the scene by Alphonse de Neuville.

Named lieutenant after the war, Gallieni was first garrisoned at the Remon. Promoted captain in 1878, he was sent to the banks of the Niger in 1879 and was charged in 1880 with the mission of re-establishing relations with Ahmadou, sultan of Segou.

Announcement

Of Special Interest to All in Need of New Window Shades and Curtain Rods.

It is a good business principle to sell only such merchandise as can be guaranteed to give perfect and lasting satisfaction.

Due to the scarcity of metals and color fast shade dyes, shade cloths and curtain rods are constantly advancing in price; however, by the terms of a contract made with us by the manufacturers we are in a position to buy shade cloths at 1915 prices. Like every other contract, this will shortly expire, and we will be compelled to advance our prices.

We handle shades of every quality from a machine-made, color-fast shade retailing at 35c, to the finest hand-made tent-color shade containing over 3,000 threads to the yard—and above all, every shade is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or the same will be replaced.

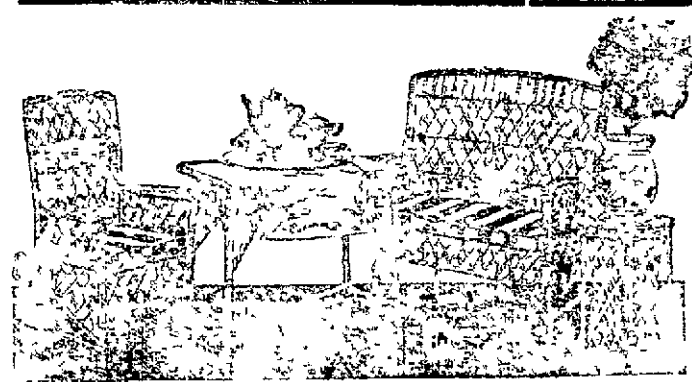

Quality ever being our watchword, we prefer to sell only the best the markets afford at the lowest possible price, rather than taking from the quality to reduce the price, as is the usual method. We invite your inspection of our lines, whether you are in need of shades or curtain rods now or later. We will be glad to show samples and give estimates on your work. We can take your order now at the old price and deliver any time in the future. # NEW FIBRES FOR CLOTH GREATLY NEEDED TODAY

War Demand Exhausting Supply of Wool in World.

VEGETABLE PRODUCT

Pine Needles, Seaweed and Plant Leaves and Stalks Are Used.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

WASHINGTON D. C., May 26.—Wool is now scarce, and a positive shortage of the fibre will probably exist within two years. This prediction has created alarm in the American textile trade, and caused scientists in all parts of the world to renew their investigations of the vegetable and mineral kingdoms for a substitute.

Every time a man in the trenches discards his woolen uniform, it is burned and a new one supplied him. This is a tremendous tax on the production of wool—a fabric that was none too plentiful when the war started.

Fabrics of all kinds have been more or less affected by the war. The large flax fields of Belgium were wiped out just as the demand for linen in hospital supplies became enormous. Only cotton has survived the war strain with anything like an increase, and in this country even its production has been curtailed by the introduction of diversified crops in the south.

Goat's hair and camel's hair have already helped us through a couple of winters and provide a possible answer to the problem. Camels and goats are not so numerous as sheep, however, so that the real answer must come from the vegetable kingdom. Nettles, pine needles, seaweed and the leaves and stalks of various plants are being experimented with by European scientists in the hope of discovering a new fabric that will have the warmth, the impenetrability to dampness and the close, soft weave of wool.

At present there are seven textile fibres on the American retail market, including cotton, wool, linen, silk, ramie, jute and artificial silk. Cotton, the cheapest of these, has short fibres with a peculiar spiral twist which are adapted to spinning, but produce a fuzzy thread preventing luster in the cloth. This disadvantage is in part overcome by the mercerizing process introduced about a decade ago, which imparts to cotton cloth a luster seen in some inferior grades of silk.

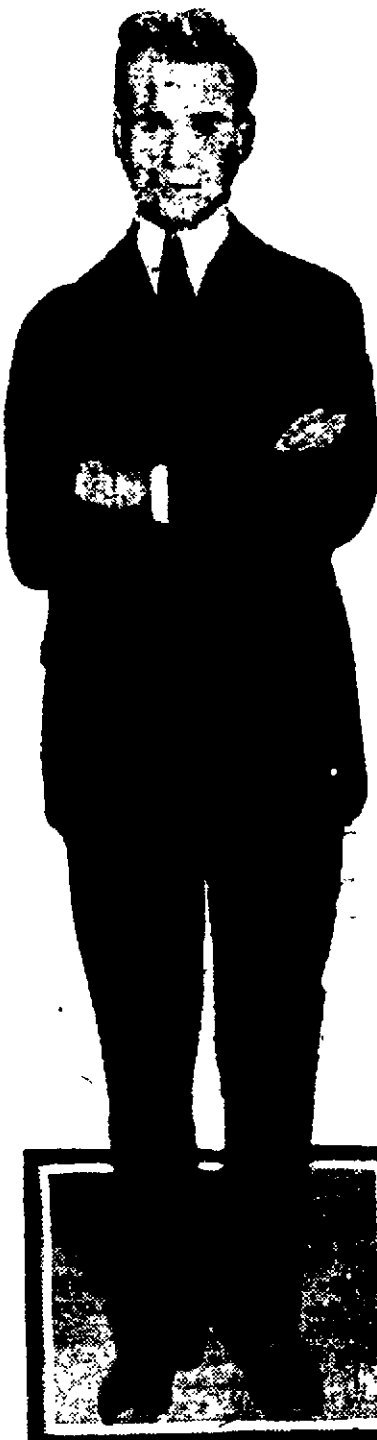

Silk is the most valuable of fabrics, owing to the length of its fibre, of ten over a 100 yards. While the mulberry tree upon which the silk worm lives, may be grown successfully in the United States, the amount of hand labor required in raising and handling the cocoon precludes the probability of our ever developing a raw product industry here. In removing the long silk fibre which is made up into a fabric known as "spun silk," having a somewhat fuzzy thread and without the usual silky luster. It is for the most part used in backs of satins, satiny silks and velvets, being as serviceable as the long fibre but not so beautiful.

Pongee, imported in large quantities from China by American textile manufacturers, is wild silk, obtained from uncultivated worms that feed on oaks and other common trees. This silk is darker in color and of a gummy substance noticeable in the cloth. The original pongee is always distinguishable by its unique odor, inherited from the Chinese quarter in which it is prepared.

American chemists have anticipated a silk shortage by inventing a synthetic substitute now filling a popular demand in the textile market. It is a collodion-like substance obtained from cotton or wood fibre and chemically treated so as to appear lustrous and at the same time withstand all the practical tests of real silk. Fortunately, the chemical process does not require great quantities of hand labor which prohibits the introduction and growth of raw fabrics in the United States.

For example, it is possible to grow ramie grass in this country. The government has experimented with the plant in various sections and found it successful, and one man in Laurel, Maryland, has several acres of ramie flourishing vigorously. But you could not get an American to do a thousand dollars' worth of average Chinaman does for a few cents a day in preparing the ramie by hand. First he cuts the stalk separately, strips off the leaves and then begins the laborious task of peeling the bark, usually with the Chinese thumb nail. After this he covers his thumb with a bamboo thimble and scrapes tediously away the gum and coloring matter, producing a long brown fibre known as Chinese grass. This is exported in large quantities to other countries, including the United States, where it is bleached and made up into ramie linen or ramie cloth. European textile manufacturers have made numerous attempts to set up machinery in the Orient for decor-

On Trial for Murder

ARTHUR WARREN WAITE.

Dr. Arthur Warren Waite is on trial in New York City on the charge of having poisoned his father-in-law in one of the most sensational murder cases the country has known in several years. Dr. Waite is a dentist, who never practised much.

Waite, who is now in the city, is a man of about 40 years of age, and is a native of New York. He is a graduate of the University of the City of New York, and has a degree in dentistry. He is a member of the American Dental Association, and has been a resident of New York City for several years.

Waite is charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Dr. John H. Waite, who died of a heart attack on May 10, 1915. The charge is that Dr. Waite was poisoned with strychnine, a powerful poison, which is often used in the manufacture of dynamite. The case is being tried in the Federal Court in New York City, and is expected to last several weeks.

Waite's defense is that he is innocent, and that his father-in-law died of a natural heart attack. He claims that he was not present at the time of the death, and that he has no knowledge of the circumstances surrounding the case. He is being held in the Federal House of Detention in New York City, and is being represented by a team of lawyers.

It has attracted the attention of the press and the public, and is being followed closely by the news media. which is 15 per cent. The American woman of fashion often pays $15 for a hat made of this identical braid which cost the manufacturer a little over 30 cents. The abaca fibre is also woven into cloth rarely seen in this country.

Many possibilities have occurred. American textile manufacturers as substitutes for various fabrics now commanding prohibitive prices and fast becoming scarce, but there is always the handicap of labor. For example, rumor has it that the Austrians are using nettles for bed linen. The Germans are reported to be using the fibre of a variety of willow rose as a substitute for jute; hops are being manufactured into dressgoods, and in the tropics the cocoanut fibre is employed in making shoes. South America is establishing experimental stations for the testing of various jungle fibres. Altogether with the aid of modern machinery, the seven modern fabrics may soon become things of the past, and our future raiment may be made out of pineapples and cocoanuts.

SNOW CHERRIES

By CATHARINE CRANMER.

Miriam trotted breathlessly up to the conductor of the last Pullman and was hustled up the steps of the train, which was already creaking and jerking in its first efforts to break from its moorings under the sheds.

Miriam shrugged uncomfortably as she made ready for her berth, knowing that she would have to be roused before daylight to leave the train at Skagmore, but she soon fell asleep, weary with the exertion of getting ready for the hurried trip and collecting that basketful of hothouse vegetables and Florida strawberries with which she hoped to tempt her aunt's truant appetite. In her dreams she went back to the summer days of a year and a half before when she had roamed Skagmore's shady streets and played many a lively game of tennis with Hilton Moore, who was then for a whole month when clematis, strawberries, roses and raspberries followed each other in a competition of loveliness and lusciousness.

The train stopped with a jerk that awakened Miriam, and she shivered slightly as with consciousness came the memory of the quarrel that had ended that idyllic period. Hilton had gone back to the last year of his medical course, and she had gone back to "English" for a year before formally entering society. As for the quarrel, it began in a mere disagreement about the rights and duties of men and maidens in general, and it might have blown over easily had not Miriam's distant cousin, a bachelor of forty, come to visit her aunt. Miriam sought to prove her indifference to Hilton by assuming great fondness for this cousin, who was frankly amused at the audacious way in which she flaunted him before Hilton.

Miriam raised herself on her elbow and looked out of the window as the train stood panting at a water station. The hills were becoming white with snow and the skies looked dark and low. The prospect of arriving at Skagmore before daylight, alone and unexpected and in a snowstorm, was not pleasant, but Miriam dropped back into the warmth of her blankets and once more fell asleep. The next she heard was the porter calling softly: "Skagmore next! Awake, Lower Three!"

Half an hour later, she stood almost knee deep in snow beside the tiny station at Skagmore, while the long black train puffed its way up the steep grade. The whiteness of the snow and a pale light at the eastern horizon relieved the darkness, and as her aunt's house was only three blocks away Miriam smiled as she thought of the old lady's surprise when she should appear before her with a dainty breakfast with strawberries as the chief attraction. Stuffing her smallest bundle into her handbag and pushing the other one under the handle of the basket, she took up her two burdens and started up the street.

Not a sound was audible in the town. Even the snow fell stealthily without any accompaniment of wind.

When Miriam had gone but one block she was compelled to let her luggage drop into the snow and to stop to rest. Standing there, she saw in the dim gray distance ahead a tall man coming toward her. She gave a sigh of relief at the prospect of being rescued, but, alas, the man turned at the first corner without seeing her.

Knowing how willing the villagers were to be of service, Miriam tried to call out, but her throat was so dry and her breath so short from her great exertion that she made a failure of it. Then she moistened her lips and sent out a trifling whistle—an accomplishment which Hilton Moore had taught her once upon a time.

At sound of the whistle the man stopped short and bent his head to listen. Again she whistled, louder this time, and he turned and looked searchingly toward her. Then he came bounding toward her with astonishing rapidity considering the depth of the snow. His face was almost hidden by a pulled-down fur cap and a turned-up fur coat collar, but there was about him an unmistakable air of protection.

"It's so good of you to come to my rescue, sir," began Miriam, but she stopped with a gasp as the man took her by the shoulders and looked sharply into her frightened eyes.

"Miriam! I'd come through fire in answer to your call."

"Hilton! You in Skagmore? Why, how does it happen?"

"Come up to grandfather's to rest a bit before taking up my work in a New York hospital. Arrived Sunday to find half the people in town, including the two doctors, down with the gripe. Hence I've been in demand day and night, which accounts for my being abroad at this hour. But come, there'll be still another patient on my list if you stand in this snow."

At her aunt's gate, Miriam pointed to the brightening horizon in the east and asked Hilton to join her in an early breakfast, promising him some strawberries from the basket as his reward for rescuing her. And they laughed like two happy children.

"But suppose I prefer cherries as my reward?" Hilton's tone was light, but his eyes were serious and the clasp of his strong hand was unyielding.

"Cherries?" blushing.

"Yes—cherries," and he kissed her by way of illustration.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and clogged. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels: removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water seals and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

WATERMELON WILT IS ATTACKING CROP IN THE FAR WEST

Has Prevailed in Southern States, Now is Spreading Elsewhere.

Affects Growing Vines and Injures Same Field For Years.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A serious disease of watermelons, known as the wilt, has for many years been prevalent in the southern states and has now extended westward to the Pacific coast, having been reported from Oklahoma, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, Texas, California and Oregon. In many sections the disease is a serious handicap to the growing of melons on a large scale, not only by destroying the growing crop, but also by preventing the successful culture of melons upon the same field again in succeeding years.

Cause of Symptoms.—Watermelon wilt is caused by a fungus which lives in the soil and enters the roots, plugging up the water-carrying vessels and preventing the rise of moisture, thus causing the wilting and death of the plant. The leaves of affected plants first droop, then rapidly wilt and soon die, the runner dying with them. Upon cutting the main tap root across near the surface of the ground it will be found to present a yellow color in the wood, making a distinct contrast with the white color of the healthy plant. This yellowing, together with the wilted appearance of the vine, makes the identification of the disease easily possible, and the further fact that a field once infected shows the same trouble in succeeding years in the same or an extended area is an additional recognition mark. All commercial varieties of melons appear to be very susceptible to the disease.

Means of Disinfection.—The disease is spread in a number of different ways. (1) By particles of earth carrying spores of the fungus, which are easily scattered by the wind, by implements used in cultivating, and by the feet of men and work animals or stray stock passing from one field to another. (2) By infected stable manure. The fungus lives in the dead vines and the practice of cutting hay from watermelon fields results in some watermelon vines being harvested with the hay and this leads to the presence of the casual fungus in the stable. When the fungus once gains entrance to the barnyard, or compost heap, it remains there for years and all the manure taken from such a yard is likely to be infected. (3) By drainage water, flowing from infected, to uninfected fields.

Means of Control.—There is nothing that can be done to save a field of melons when once attacked by the wilt, but the disease may be avoided by the following precautions:

1. In infected districts, watermelons should never be planted on land where watermelons have been grown within 10 or 12 years, more or less, depending on soil conditions, as experiments have shown that the fungus causing the disease is able to live a long period in the ground. As a matter of practical experience, it is usually possible to secure enough fresh land, so that an adequate supply of watermelons can be grown in any large district without need of recourse to old fields.

2. Stable manure which has become infected by the use of melon hay or refuse containing melon vines must never be applied to the watermelon crop, or to land where it is desired to plant watermelons later.

3. Fields which have received the drainage water from infected fields must be considered and treated as if infected. This means that the farmer having two fields, one of which is on higher ground than the other, should plant the lower field first.

4. As far as possible live stock should be prevented from passing from infected to uninfected fields.

5. Breeding resistant varieties. It has been demonstrated by the department of agriculture that varieties of watermelons resistant to wilt can be bred. The strains thus far produced are not recommended for general planting, but it will be worth while for interested localities to have wilt-resistant varieties adapted to their conditions bred.

Cincy Wins the Second Game of Chicago Series

CINCINNATI, O., May 27.—Cincinnati took the second game of the series from Chicago here yesterday 5 to 4. Saler's error in the second inning was costly, the local team scoring two runs. Their other run was made by opportune hitting. Herzog at short had nine putouts and not an assist. Chicago used three pitchers, Hendrix and Lavender both being relieved as a result of the local team bunting hits.

old province of Champagne. It is a life that is so full of the picturesque that it constitutes perhaps the greatest attraction that has been witnessed in the department of the Aube.
Fraternalizing with the French soldiers, quartered in another part of the camp, these men show no need of repose after their 75 days of hard sea voyage. They appear as suppliants at their French comrades, although alongside of them they look something like giants. The entire camp exhales an atmosphere of gaiety, confidence and discipline which is quite as striking as their individual appearance.

Tommy Atkins can teach them nothing in the way of hygiene and cleanliness. Men, privates and subaltern officers, take pride and care in looking after the barracks.
They are excellent soldiers. General Lotchewski said simply to the Associated Press correspondent in reply to compliments upon their bearing and appearance:
Many of my men might be called veterans, although you see that there are very few who are not still young. They have seen hard service and are penetrated through and through with the military spirit, what makes them particularly happy is the opportunity to come to fight for France against the common adversary on French soil.

These Russians appear impatient to get to the front. They are mostly peasant boys, tall, muscular and with every mark of real sons of the soil, as simple as they are robust and as frank and outspoken as they are vigorous.
"Are we soon to march against the Germans?" asked one of the young subaltern officers, while all the men gathered around him approved the inquiry with a gesture of the head.
A new contingent of these men arrived on May 8, and this same inquiry was the first thing they had to say on reaching the camp. Discretion prevents disclosing how many of them there are here, and since they continue to arrive it is impossible to conclude as yet whether their presence is simply a sort of platonic expression of sympathy from the Russian army, or whether their force is expected to add a real element of strength to the Entente Allies on this front.

Games Cancelled

Professor Schweickert of Lima high school informed the manager of the Mansfield high team which was scheduled to play in Lima today, that the game would have to be cancelled on account of wet grounds. At the same time an attempt was made to arrange for the playing of the games next Tuesday, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. If the date is settled on it will be the last game of the baseball season for Lima.

Speed to Be Seen July 4th

Within the past week letters have been received by the Lima Speedway association from two more drivers seeking to enter the Fourth of July auto races at the Lima Driving park.

Ben Larwell, a Columbus driver, has decided to re-enter the race again this season and says he wishes to make his initial start on the Lima track. He is the pilot of a fast Dusenbergs that has been regularly cleaning up money on all mile and half-mile speedways in the state.

George Mowery, who hails from Loudonville, Ohio, will be numbered among the younger generation of drivers who will contest for the $1,000 in prizes on the Lima track. Nothing definite has been learned in regard to Syd Martin from whom Dale Armentrout wrested the Ohio half-mile championship last fall. Rumor that he has retired from the game has been proven false.

HERE'S TO YOU, OLD COMRADES

On Tuesday the nation pauses for a day to do honor to you, the Boys in Blue, who saved it for us some fifty years ago.

You were all boys together then, filled with the spirit and the strength of boyhood. Walking across Georgia was sport to you. With stout hearts and sound limbs you pushed through cane-brakes, and waded creeks. The long dusty miles slid away under your feet.

But fifty years makes some difference to even the strongest frame. Some of the old comrades aren't as spry as they were in '63. Fact is, rheumatism or one thing or another makes it pretty hard for them to get away from the house at all.

But the telephone makes it easy to keep in touch with all the boys. A friendly visit over the 'phone now and then reminds your old friends that you haven't forgotten them.

And Tuesday especially, think of some of your comrades that you haven't seen for a long time, and call them up.

Impending Holiday and the Note to Britain Keep Stocks Sluggish.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Overnight developments, more especially Washington's vigorous note to Great Britain and France regarding mail detentions, doubtless accounted in large measure for the irregular heaviness of today's early market operations. Standard rails, including Reading and Canadian Pacific, U. S. Steel, coppers and shipping shares, as well as prominent specialties were lower by material fractions to a full point with few offsetting gains. Trading was in moderate volume and limited as to the number of issues. Today's short session reflected the impending holiday and other developments of a deterrent character, including Washington's sharp protest to England and France. Trading was light to a negligible degree but price movements were almost wholly downward. Some leading rails recorded losses of 1 to 2 points. Reading being again the weakest feature. War shares, metals and specialties in general, were lower by 1 to 3 points at the extreme decline, with as much or more for the metals. Of all leaders United States Steel was the only one to yield less than a point. Moderate rallies occurred later, but the tone at the close was heavy. Bonds were irregular.

RAINS SEND WHEAT
SHARPLY DOWN HILL

CHICAGO, May 27.—Rains in the southwest turned wheat prices today sharply downward. Some of the largest houses though were purchasers on the break. Such buyers contended as a rule that the rains in Oklahoma were apparently not heavy enough to give more than temporary relief from the drought that has prevailed so long.

Opening prices which ranged from 1 to 1c lower with July at $1.11 to $1.14 and September at $1.11 to $1.14 were followed by material further declines.

Favorable weather and the weakness of wheat made the corn market sag. About the only buying was from shorts. After opening unchanged to 1/2¢ lower, prices continued to descend. Oats eased off with other grain. Trade, however, was well divided. Provisions averaged lower, notwithstanding an advance in the hog market. The reason appeared to be falling off in provision shipments as compared with last week's total.

This plan is especially adapted to a south or west front. It has a fine arrangement of rooms very convenient from every point, nice big closets in the bed rooms, a special hall and linen closet, bath room with tile floor and wainscot, splendid planning of kitchen and rear entrance with combination stairs to cellar and grade door entry.
The living and dining rooms are finished in oak throughout, balance of rooms in birch, white enameled and mahogany doors. The front porch is of reinforced concrete and the exterior of pressed brick up to the main cornice; gables treated with rough cast white stucco and roof with asbestos shingles make it practically fireproof, all but inside construction.
